

Chapter 1

Crime, Tyranny, & Insanity Versus Freedom

Note: This report is written from a moralist and ethical perspective. If you are a pedophile, rapist, sexually promiscuous person, criminal, drug user and/or don't believe in marriage fidelity – you may be offended by this article. Most of the people seeking to leave the US are concerned about being the victim of a crime, being raped, having their children kidnapped or sexually assaulted, etc. The purpose of this article is to compare criminal and sexual behavior between countries.

INCARCERATION (Read: Police State)

The FACTS:

The US has less than 4.2% of the world's population, however, more than 25% of all people in the world that are in prison - are incarcerated in the United States.

Approximately 9 million people are imprisoned in the entire world. 2.4 million of these are in the United States of America. There are 6.7 billion people living on the planet.

More than 7 million Americans are behind bars, on probation, or on parole. This represents 1 in every 32 adult Americans. This is by far the greatest ratio of a country's citizenry being in the penal system. No other country on the planet comes close.

We have a corrections sector that employs more Americans than the combined work forces of General Motors, Ford, and Wal-Mart, the three largest corporate employers in the country, and we are spending some $230 billion annually on law enforcement and corrections at all levels of government, a fourfold increase (in constant dollars) over the past quarter century.

In modern history, there have been few countries that have surpassed the United States "current" incarceration rates/numbers. Stalin's Soviet Union, with millions sent to forced labor camps in the mid 1930's unarguably rates as one the worst oppressive police state/dictatorships in modern history.

Hitler's concentration camps were really work camps that employed hundreds of thousands of people as free slave labor for pro-Nazi corporations, as well as being death camps to exterminate people. Millions from all over Europe, not just Germany, were sent to the notorious Nazi concentration camps.

The Cambodian Khmer Rouge's despotic regime forced many of its eight million people into labor camps or prisons during the late 1970's. Best estimates are that nearly two million of these people were murdered by the tyrant Pol Pot. The Khmer Rouge was also known for the unspeakable horrors of torturing many of the victims.

Currently, China claims that 1.5 million of its citizens are imprisoned. Certain human rights groups dispute that number, saying the actual number is much higher. China has more than four times the US population yet has fewer people incarcerated.

North Korea does not give out its prison statistics, but is considered to have a high ratio of its citizenry imprisoned.

Bottom line: When it comes to imprisoning its population, the current situation in the United States resembles the greatest tyrannical governments of all time. What should scare the daylights out of any American is this unsettling fact: Throughout all of human history, nearly every time a government approaches placing 3 out of every 100 adult citizens in its penal system – that government turns into a tyrannical police state of historic proportions (ala Hitler, Stalin, Mao, Pol Pot...)

The US is already at 3 adults per 100 in its penal system.

And if that doesn't concern you, this should. In 2006 the US government gave Halliburton subsidiary Kellogg, Brown and Root a $385 million dollar (annual) contract by Homeland Security to construct detention and processing facilities (read: concentration camps). The 2009 House of Representatives bill HR645 allocates 360 million dollars for “National emergency centers”. This is just another name for detention centers, concentration camps, relocation centers, education camps, etc. In 2014 Congress is continuing to pass draconian laws that in essence “imprison” the US population. They also continue to fund facilities for future detention of the American people.

So how does the rest of the world stack up to these frightening US statistics?

93% of the countries in the world have less than half the incarceration rate compared to the US. Nearly half the countries in the world have one tenth the US incarceration rate.

Most people would think that possibly the nations of Africa or extremely poor countries would have high incarceration rates. Surprising, it is just the opposite. Of the 200 plus countries in the world, the nations with the least of its population in prison are many of the African nations and the poorer countries. (They can't afford the complex prison systems that the US has. Yet surprisingly, they have much lower crime rates.)

When we examine the details of these statistics, an even more ominous picture emerges. For example:

In Argentina, there are approximately 50,000 people imprisoned out of a population of 40 million. This is an incarceration rate of 125 per 100,000. However, 60% of those 50,000 people are called remand prisoners or pre-trial detainees – people accused of a crime but have not gone to trial (they may be innocent and have not been found guilty, yet). That means that really only 20,000 people in a country of 40 million are convicted criminals that are imprisoned. This brings Argentina's incarceration rate to 50 per 100,000. (The US has a 737 per 100,000-incarceration rate.)

In comparison, of the 2.3 million people residing in US jails and prisons, only 20% are remand prisoners. Argentina has three times this amount, at 60%. 80% of those incarcerated in the US are already convicted and serving their sentences. Other southern South America countries have similar statistics. What you should seriously think about is how horrible these statistics for the US are compared to the other top safe havens. Your life is truly in danger in the US. Either from criminals or being thrown into prison AS A CRIMINAL!

What makes this even worse is the statistic that an additional 4.8 million Americans have been convicted of crimes, and are in the penal system, but NOT imprisoned. They are on probation or out on parole. The US simply does not have enough prison and jail cells in which to place all of their criminals. Therefore, more than two-thirds of recently convicted criminals walk the streets of America. (No ex-criminals are in these statistics if they have served their time and are no longer in the penal system. Not even convicted child molesters.)

Here are the numbers:

The US is #1 in the world in the number of people incarcerated in prisons.

The US ranks #1 in the world in the percentage of its adult population that is imprisoned.

The US is #1 in the world in the percentage of its citizenry that has been convicted of a crime and is in the penal system (prison, jail, parole, or probation).

Does this mean that all the criminals in the United States are locked up or have been reformed?

Hardly! In fact the US is in the top 10% of nearly every crime statistic that there is. Especially in violent crimes such as rape and armed robbery.

CRIME

The FACTS:

Nearly 25 million Americans are victims of crime every year. This means statistically, that in the past four years, one third of every man, woman and child in the United States have been victimized by a criminal.

Over the past ten years in the United States:

An average of 20,000 Americans are murdered every year.

More than 100,000 women are raped annually. 250,000 are sexually assaulted. (Raped, attempted rape, and sexual assault.) Authorities say about one third of all rapes are reported. It is possible that 6 million women were raped in the US in the past 20 years, not the 2 million reported!

There are over a million aggravated assaults annually in the US.

Over 1.3 million vehicles are stolen every year. More than 25 million in the past two decades. There are more than 7 million acts of larceny or theft annually.

More than 20 million property crimes (burglary, theft, motor vehicle theft) occur annually. There are more than a half a million robberies annually.

How do other countries in the world fare? As far as our safe havens are concerned, ALL of them fair better in the crime categories!

The amount of overall crime in the United States is around 19,000 crimes per 100,000 people.

Overall crime includes the following: The Violent Crimes of murder, forcible rape, robbery (personal), and aggravated assault (someone attacks you). Also, the Property Crimes of burglary (you are not at home), larceny/theft, and motor vehicle theft.

The amount of overall crime in our Top 7 Safe Havens is between 4,500 crimes per 100,000 and 12,000 crimes per 100,000.

However, when it comes to violent crime, the US fares much worse than our Top 7 Safe Havens. Here is where you must take this information personally.

If you became a crime statistic, would you rather be raped or have your home burglarized? Murdered or have your CD player stolen out of your car?

Think about it.

What about crime in other countries? Some Canadian crime statistics are worse than those in the US, but overall the US has worse crime. Mexico has more murders, more kidnappings, and more overall corruption than the US. Most Caribbean countries have high levels of crime.

The English speaking countries with similar US laws such as New Zealand, Australia, and England have extremely high crime. Belize (formerly called British Honduras), one of the few English-speaking countries south of the US border, has horrible crime.

The countries with the least amount of crime are mostly Muslim countries: Yemen, Turkey, Qatar, Azerbaijan, Georgia, and Armenia.

RAPE

It sounds impossible, but this is true: Every year, more women are raped in Cleveland, Ohio (population less than a half a million) than in the entire countries of any of our Top 7 Safe Havens (exception is Brazil.)

Let's read that last sentence one more time and let it sink in.

It sounds impossible, but this is true: Every year, more women are raped in Cleveland, Ohio (population less than a half a million) than in the entire countries of our Top 7 Safe Havens, minus Brazil.

So you are not a woman? Don't care? Do you know any women? Perhaps you have a wife or daughter? A sister? How about your mother? How would you feel if they were raped?

American women have a 2,250 times more chance of being raped in the United States than if they lived in one of the safe havens. 2,250 TIMES! 225,000 per cent greater chance of being raped!

So you are a man and think these statistics don't affect you? Think again! Though the statistics are not nearly as available on male rape (men being forcibly sodomized), the US has one of the highest male rape statistics in the world.

Also remember, you also have a much greater chance of being convicted of a crime (innocent or guilty) and ending up in a US prison than you do in our safe havens. Male rape (and AIDS, Hepatitis C, and other sexually transmitted diseases) is epidemic in the US prison system. MURDER

Though the number of murders in the US has dropped from the 20,000 plus per year of the past three decades to around 17,000 per year, the number of Americans murdered every year is beginning to move higher again. For the past two years murder rates have gone up.

In the mid 90's when 23 states in the US implemented the "3 strikes and your out" policy to get career criminals off the streets, many crime statistics did level off or drop. Today, only three of those states really use the law to imprison career criminals, California, Florida, and Georgia. Because of this, some of the "safest" (read less dangerous) cities in the US are in California, though Texas has some of the biggest cities with low crime rates.

The US murder rate is around 6 people murdered every year per 100,000 population. Because the US population currently stands at 300 million, there are 3,000 times 100,000 people living in the US. 3,000 times 6 (number of people murdered per 100,000) is 18,000. There were just under 18,000 people murdered in the US in 2006. By 2013 it had fallen to around 15,000.

In 1980 the murder rate was 10.2. In 1990 it was 9.4. In 1995 it was 8.2.

In some major cities in the US, the death toll is dramatically escalating! Cities like Baltimore, Maryland, St. Louis, Missouri, and Detroit, Michigan have murder rates of around 40 people murdered per year per 100,000 citizens. That is six and half times the national average. Washington, D.C. and Newark, New Jersey have around 35 murders per 100,000. Kansas City, Missouri, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Cincinnati, Ohio, Cleveland, Ohio, Oakland, California, Atlanta, Georgia, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and Memphis, Tennessee have murder rates over 20 people per 100,000 population.

What are the three safest big cities? Honolulu, Hawaii with a murder rate of only 1.7 (3 ½ times less than the national average!) El Paso, Texas with “only” 2.3 murders per 100,000 population. (They have over 600,000 people.) Corpus Christi, Texas with 2.8.

Most rural areas are MUCH “safer” than big cities. This is true throughout most countries in the world.

Murder is higher in Columbia (63 murders per 100,000), South Africa (51), Jamaica (32), Venezuela (31), Russia (19), Mexico (13), Lithuania, Estonia, and Latvia all with 10, and Belarus (9).

The US always ranks in the top 10% to 15% of all countries for murder. That means that 85% to 90% of all the countries in the world have lower murder rates.

The rural areas of our Top 7 Safe Havens are extremely safe, where murder rates are some of the lowest in the world.

CHILD ABUSE, CHILD PORN, and PEDOPHILIA

CHILD ABUSE

Child abuse is epidemic in the United States. Few countries in the world have the child abuse problems that the US has. Because of culture and the obscure way child abuse is reported in some countries, nailing down specific child abuse details in all the countries of the world is difficult. However, this much we do know:

The United States has a child population of around 70 million. More than 3.5 million children are investigated for child abuse annually (one out of 20). Over one million are substantiated as victims. Just slightly more than 300,000 of these innocent victims were sexually abused.

There are no countries with higher percentage child abuse rates than the United States.

CHILD PORN

Most of the child pornography produced in the world comes from the United States. Germany, Canada, and the UK are the other countries that produce child porn.

Even though the US has less than 5% of the world's population (4.3% actual), they purchase most of the child porn produced in the world.

The US porn industry has over 10 billion dollars in annual sales.

The US porn industry takes in more money than all movie theatres in the US combined. Over one million pornographic videos are 'rented' annually through adult video stores in the US.

In a 2004 CBS 60 Minutes report, Steve Kroft reported, "Then there are the big hotel chains: Hilton, Marriot, Hyatt, Sheraton and Holiday Inn, which all offer adult films on in-room pay-per-view television systems. And they are purchased by a whopping 50 percent of their guests, accounting for nearly 70 percent of their in-room profits. One hotel owner said, "We have to have it. Our guests demand it."

Yes, 50% of hotel guests purchase in-room porn!

And you thought $10 bottles of water and $7 tiny bags of chips stocked in the mini-frig was how the hotel chains made big bucks? Nope! 70% of all in-room profits come from pay-per-view porn.

Americans spend more money on porn than they do attending professional sporting events (yes, football, basketball, baseball, hockey NASCAR, all professional sports!) or buying music or going out to the movies!

Doesn't this make you think about who all those porn addicts are? Your neighbors. Your family members. Your co-workers. Your children's teachers. Your son's cub scout leader. Your daughter's swimming coach. Don't deny it. It is a present day reality in the United States!

PEDOPHILIA

There are more than 750,000 registered sex offenders in the United States. (According to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children). This number is a fraction of the amount of pedophiles in the US because not all child sex offenders get caught. And many who are caught are not convicted!

The US population is inundated with pedophilia related stories every day. Catholic priests. High school women teachers seducing young boys (ala Mary Kay Letourneau). Ted Bundy.

Republican congressman Mark Foley. Victim Elizabeth Smart (kidnapped from her second story bedroom in Utah). MSNBC chat room stings. Boy scout troop leaders sexually abusing boys. Ad nauseum.

There are approximately 1.3 million children reported missing every year in the United States. Thankfully, most of these children are recovered alive and well. However, compared to the rest of the world, the US fails miserably in the number of children abducted every year. Satanists, pedophiles, homosexuals, and sexual deviants are the culprits in most cases that do not involve a relative. This is reflective of a pervasive attitude of promiscuity in the US.

To say that children in the United States are in danger of being targeted for abuse is an understatement.

For an example, just investigate the Texas Youth Commission scandal. The TYC is in charge of all Texas youth between the ages of 10 and 17 that are placed in the penal system after being convicted of a major crime. Volumes have been written about the scandal (just ‘google’ the words “Texas youth commission scandal”). We do not have the space to cover everything here. The gist of the scandal is that many (some say most) of the people hired to be in charge of the boys are pedophiles, from the prison guards all the way up to the administrators. The state of Texas now admits over 100 people hired in the TYC were felons, many convicted of sexual crimes. A Texas Ranger investigation found out that boys would be roused from their sleep for the purpose of conducting all-night sex parties. The horror stories are voluminous. Thousands of children are being used as sex-toys by adult perverts every day in our juvenile penal system in the US.

Sadly though, in countries like Mexico, men having sex with 13 year olds is considered ‘normal’ or acceptable. Southeast Asia countries such as Thailand are famous for the ease in which adults can have sex with children. In fact, pedophilia is a major tourist industry for Thailand.

However, in our Top 7 Safe Havens, child abuse, pedophilia, and child porn are extremely rare. Statistics are hard to come by, but the best estimates that can be generated would be startling. There is a 900 times greater threat of a child being sexually abused in the United States than in our Top 7 Safe Havens. That is 90,000%!

Children are idolized and meticulously cared for in most of our Top 7 Safe Havens. The family unit is much stronger in Latin American countries than it is in the United States. Human Rights groups and even the US State Department agree that child abuse of any kind is rare in our Top 7 Safe Havens.

Sadly, if you are a parent in the United States, you have a frighteningly substantial chance of falsely being accused of abusing your child, either sexually or physically. Millions of parents are falsely investigated for child abuse EVERY YEAR in the US! Over the life of your child, from infant (shaken baby syndrome) to toddler (black and blue marks from playground accidents) to adolescent (broken bones playing sports), in modern America, you are nearer a living nightmare of having your children taken away from you by Child Protective Services than you can ever imagine.

The statistics of being falsely accused of child abuse in the United States are astronomical in comparison to nearly every other country in the world. Of the nearly 3.5 million annual investigations into child abuse annually in the US, the government admits that two thirds of the cases do not involve child abuse. This amounts to over two million parents falsely being accused of child abuse.

In our Top 7 Safe Havens, child abuse is virtually non-existent or rare. There are many reasons that there is such a dramatically huge statistical difference between the US and our Top 7 Safe Havens.

- 1) In the US, there are more than a million children abused annually. This is approximately one out of every 67 children. (Though many experts declare that it is much worse than this.)
- 2) The US has CPS (Child Protective Services) type organizations in nearly every city. These governmental agencies are many times staffed with people who aggressively prosecute innocent people for various reasons. Power trips, financial ‘rewards’ to get more kids into the ‘system’, as well as supplying children to pedophile contacts in the foster care system are just a few of the reasons.
- 3) Doctors, nurses, and hospital employees are required to report any possible cases of child abuse to CPS. This includes, but is not limited to: bruises, broken bones, injuries, or “fear in the eyes of a child”. (Right, like no child would exude fear in the emergency room of a hospital with an injury!) Many infant vaccines injure babies similar to shaken baby syndrome. (Just ‘google’ it, and you’ll be amazed at how many parents are behind bars because they were falsely accused of shaken baby syndrome after a vaccine damaged their baby.)
- 4) Schools, teachers, school nurses, and administrators are trained to gather as much information from their students as possible, to ‘look for’ potential cases of child abuse.
- 5) Fascist Germany trained their citizens to turn their neighbors in for any and all infractions. The US is one of the most fascist nations on earth; with Homeland Security’s own manuals following lock step the path Nazi Germany took in criminalizing everyone and nearly everything, to control the people.

Statistics do not show the human drama of having a child taken away from you when you are innocent. There are literally hundreds of websites that tell the true ongoing stories of this monumental human tragedy.

DRUGS

Note: For those of you who do drugs and want to learn about the countries that have liberal drug laws, (so you can consider moving to one of them), we recommend doing an Internet search to keep up with the latest laws in various countries. We admit our bias against the use of drugs, and therefore this article may offend pot smokers and heroin users alike. FYI: Only two of our Top 25 countries for survivability have liberal pot laws (marijuana use is seldom prosecuted): Italy and Uruguay. And none of our top 10 survival countries give the death penalty for drug possession like Malaysia and Singapore.

The drug problem in the United States is truly epidemic. The drug culture is so ingrained into the American way of life, reading the statistics are earth shattering.

We've all seen the statistics. They are shocking. They are disturbing. But they are real.

Marijuana, though it is illegal in most of the USA, is the number one cash crop in the United States, surpassing corn!

More than 110 million adults have used illegal drugs in their lifetime. This represents about half of all American adults. More than 35 million are 'users'. (Abuse drugs annually.) More than 20 million are addicted. (Abuse drugs monthly.)

40 million adults have used cocaine.

30% of all 12 to 17 year olds (minors) have used illegal drugs. That's 7.6 million children.

1.2 million 12 to 17 year olds have used hallucinogens (LSD, PCP, Ecstasy)

3.4 million 12 to 17 year olds have abused prescription drugs such as Oxycontin, tranquilizers, and methamphetamines.

Nearly 25% of all eighth graders have used an illegal substance in the past month. 65% of all 18 to 25 year olds have used illegal drugs. That's 25 million young people. Drug related crime, including murder, is also epidemic in the US.

What about other countries? Outside of Australia and Canada, the US leads the world in drug use and abuse.

Yes, even notoriously heavy pot smoking Jamaica has less of its population abusing marijuana than the United States. FYI: “Only” 10.7% of Jamaican adults abuse pot versus the US’s 18%.

Australia is the only country in the world with higher drug use than the US.

SEXUAL PROMISCUITY

Note: For those who are into free-sex and openly sexual lifestyles, again our bias will show through in this report. There are some countries that readily accept homosexual and free-sex lifestyles. Then again there are some countries that have laws against adultery and homosexuality. Some will even imprison “offenders”.

Sexual Promiscuity is a way of life in the US. Statistics on sexual behavior are easy to come by for the US, but more difficult in our Top 7 Safe Havens. However, this much we can state. The number of marriages in the United States, in which both the bride and the groom are virgins, is less than 2%. Even though 70% of the US population considers themselves “Christian” – a faith that uses the Bible for its belief system and morals – which teaches that sex outside of marriage is punishable by eternal hell – these “Christians” are more influenced by American culture, than their “faith”.

The average age an American loses their virginity: 16 years old

Multiple sexual partners for the US population (yes, teens to even senior citizens) are the norm as well. Despite some movements in the US to promote virginity among young people until marriage, few of those who join such groups actually have the will power to honor the commitment. Note the example (many would say hypocrisy) of former Vice Presidential candidate Sarah Palin and her daughter Bristol who gave birth out of wedlock.

US SEX STATISTICS

Every day more than 8,000 teenagers become infected with a sexually transmitted disease. (Nearly 3 million per year!)

Every year more than one million teenage girls become pregnant. (2,800 per day.)

45% of all females in the US become pregnant BEFORE they reach 20 years old. (While they are teenagers.)

Over half of ALL high school students have had sexual intercourse. Half of all new HIV infections are teenagers.

The US has the highest teen pregnancy rates in the world. (More than 10 times higher than most of our Top 7 Safe Havens.)

The US has the highest rates of teenage sexually transmitted diseases in the world.

The AVERAGE US teenager views more than 14,000 sexual references PER YEAR on television. 40% of all boys between 15 and 17 have had multiple sex partners.

90% of all children between 8 and 16 have viewed pornography on the Internet. (In most cases, the sex sites were accessed unintentionally using a search engine for a school project or other benign information.)

According to the CDC, in 1991, 9% of all white males, 16% of all Hispanic males, and 50% of all black males reported they had sexual intercourse for the first time BEFORE the age of 13. (NOTE: That statistic is more than 24 years old! It is much worse today!)

More than a third of all teenagers have had sex with one or more people in the past three months.

35% of all US births are to unmarried women.

Nearly half of all children will live in a home of cohabitating ‘parents’ sometime during their childhood.

One fourth of all women in the US between the ages of 25 and 39 are currently cohabitating.

Nearly half of all American adults are currently unmarried. In 2000 it was 44%. In 1990 it was 41%. In 1980 it was 39%. In 1970 it was 36%.

50% of all college students admit to having a “one night stand”. (Sexual encounter with a person they never see again.)

FAMILY UNITY & DIVORCE

It is unarguably statistically proven that the person growing up in a tight-knit loving family is more apt not to do drugs, end up in prison, or participate in criminal behavior. Experts will also point to education as a mitigating factor in criminal behavior.

The divorce rates in the United States have become so severe and common (more than half of all marriages end in divorce) that they are the subject of many jokes. It is no laughing matter when children are involved. Statistically, children of broken marriages are prone to more destructive behavior than their counterparts who have parents that have never been divorced.

This behavior leads to dramatically higher rates of suicide, murder, criminal behavior, as well as divorce for themselves, if and when they do marry.

Sadly, in the US, the divorce rates have leveled off, not because fewer marriages are ending in divorce (it is still slightly over 50% of all marriages ending in divorce), but because huge numbers of couples are no longer getting married, but are living together without marriage. They simply exchange partners/lovers without the ‘hassle’ of divorce. Some experts believe that over 85% of marriages and couples living together end up in ‘divorce’.

For example, in Argentina, divorce is rare. Less than 3% of all marriages end in divorce. Compare this with 52% of American marriages ending in divorce. People in the US have a better than 50% chance that their marriage will fail. Why?

Societal differences between the US and Argentina and other Latin American countries are HUGE! The family unit is entirely different in Latin American countries than it is in the US. Reading any books on Latin American Countries (even travel guides) nearly always mention the huge difference between the way Americans and Latinos view the family. These differences are profoundly noticeable, even to the person just traveling to Latin American countries.

Human life, especially that of children, is looked upon as almost sacred in Latin American countries.

For example, abortion is illegal in Argentina, except in rare and extreme cases of saving the life of the mother. Mothers in the United States have killed over 55,000,000 (yes, over fifty five million) innocent babies in their wombs. For every three children born in the US, one is aborted. In Argentina, for every 6,000 children born, one is aborted. Don’t let that statistic pass you by. More than one fourth of all pregnancies end in abortion in the United States. That is 26.3% (more than twenty six percent). In Argentina, 0.016% (less than two one hundredths of one percent) of all births end in abortion! Compare killing 26.3% of one country’s unborn children to 0.016% of another country’s unborn children. Who is more civilized?

Child abuse in our Top 7 Safe Havens is rare. In the US, there are over a million substantiated cases of child abuse per year. One out of ever 67 children is being abused annually in the US. One out of every several thousand children is abused in our Top 7 Safe Havens.

Pedophilia is rampant in the US.

Divorce is more common than “til death do us part” in the US, as 52% of all marriages end in divorce. As an example, more than 97% of all marriages in Argentina do not end in divorce, but only end with the death of a spouse, as the marriage vow states.

Crime in the US is out of control. Children are committing more and more crimes, even murder. Crime statistics are overwhelming.

Sexual Promiscuity is normal behavior for teens to adults of nearly any age in the United States. It is considered either ill behavior or something that should not be done in the open in Argentina, just like it was 100 hundred years ago in the US.

What every person living in the United States must ask themselves:

Aren't you playing Russian Roulette with your life, the lives of your children and family?

The chances of you being convicted of a crime (whether you are innocent or not) are extremely high. The chances that a female loved one will be raped is an inescapable reality. The chances that you or a family member will be murdered in a criminal act is greater than dying by fire, drowning, suffocation, accidental firearm shooting, lightning strike, and poisoning combined.

The chances that many of your neighbors are purchasing and viewing pornography is extremely high. The chance that you or a family member will become addicted to porn is high.

The chances that a criminal will sexually abuse your child is a present day nightmare.

The chances that nearly a third of the teenagers in your hometown are abusing drugs and many of them are committing crimes while "high" are 99%.

Are you willing to take the chance that you and your family will not be affected by the overwhelming crime, sexual perversion, and drug culture in the United States?

Question: How many people live (build their home) in the mouth of an active volcano?

Answer: None.

Why? Because it is dangerous and would be stupid. There are better options of a place to live.

Question: How many and what kind of people do not prepare when a Category 5 Hurricane is predicted to hit their coastal town?

Answer: Very few and only ignorant or arrogant people. Ignorant people who do not keep informed. Arrogant people who think, "God won't let nothin' happen to me!" or "I am a tough dude and I can ride this thing out," or "No one is tellin' me to leave MY home, by golly!"

Why? Because most people (intelligent people) do not want to die or suffer needlessly, and they have options to get out of harms way.

Question: What father, having a picnic in the park with his wife and children, would not leave the park if: an intense lightning storm hit the park or a notoriously violent gang, known to kill innocent victims for their initiation rights, invaded the park en masse with a hundred gang members?

Answer: Every decent, family-loving father would leave immediately.

Why? Because the risk of death, injury, or harm to his loved ones outweighs the benefits of having a ‘good time’ or trying to be macho defending his ‘turf’. Here is the real life and death question, THE reality question you MUST face today:

Question: Why are more than 500,000 Americans permanently leaving the United States every year? Why are 10 million Americans planning to exit the US within the next several months?

Answer:

- 1. There are much better options of a place to live than the US.
- 2. Intelligent people do not want to die young or suffer needlessly, and they have discovered options to get out of harms way.
- 3. Because the risk of death, injury, or harm to their loved ones outweighs the benefits of having a ‘good time’ or trying to defend ‘their turf’ (country.)

Learn. Be aware. Know the facts. About where you live. And know your options.

Murder	Crime	Rapes	Drug Addicts
Taxes	Brutal Cops	Pedophiles	Child Protective Services
Litigious Society	Gangs	Greed	Porn Addicted Neighbors
Deceptions	Immorality	War	Concentration Camps
Corruption	Confiscation	Dumbed Down	Unfair Judicial System
Pollution	Racism	Media Lies	Infectious Diseases
Cost of living	Economy	Loss of Freedoms

Therefore:

Question: What person living in the United States, after discovering the truth about the murder rates, rapes, porn addicted neighbors, criminals walking the streets, drug addicts, pedophiles, chance of ending up in prison or jail, though being innocent, etc., etc., etc. is not going to check into their options?

Answer: The dumb, lazy, deceived or uninformed.

Think about this:

Intelligent, truth seeking, Europeans fled Nazi occupied land (35 current countries were occupied by the Nazis) BEFORE it was too late. Many left their homes, their personal belongings (think pianos, photos, fine china, sports trophies, everything!), their jobs, their friends and even their relatives behind. Many of those who did not flee in time either died in the concentration camps, were 'sucked' into the system and became members of the SS, the brown shirts, the Gestapo, the Hitler Youth, or 'lost their souls' supporting the Nazis. Very few lived 'normal' lives.

72 million people died because of World War II. 47 million were civilians! More than 10% of Germany's population died in the war.

For every one person who fled the Nazi advancement BEFORE it was too late, 21 people died staying 'put'.

Again...

For every one person who fled BEFORE it was too late, 21 people died staying 'put' .

We are absolutely convinced that half the current US population will be dead within the next 5 to 15 years. That is 150,000,000 dead Americans. Those remaining will not be the lucky ones. They will suffer in ways in which most humans have never thought possible.

For every one person that flees the US, most likely hundreds will die. So what are you going to do about it?
